

Memorial Union Program Council and the Center for Leadership Development present:

The 2012 Art of Leadership Conference Committee would like to officially invite students to register for this year's conference!

Who: College students from all over Oregon

What: The Art of Leadership Conference "Our Generation Our Purpose"

When: Saturday, February 18, 2012 11:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.

Where: Oregon State University Memorial Union

We will spend the day exploring ways that our generation can develop leadership skills to carry into their lives after college. Just for attending the conference, 3 OSU students will each win a $1000 scholarship.

Topics range from finding purpose in all realms of life to spirituality, civic engagement, and developing personal strengths. We will begin the day in the Memorial Union Ballroom with keynote speaker Tim McMahon who will focus on students of this generation. This will be followed by a question and answer session with a panel of recent Oregon State graduates. This is an opportunity for the graduates to share their experiences and for the audience to ask any questions about life after college.

Students will then have the opportunity to attend breakout sessions focused on different aspects of leadership, including student activism, career leadership, service as leadership, and leadership from an international perspective. In the latter part of the program Oregon State Alumnus Alex Polvey, founder of Cloud Kick Computing, will be delivering the closing keynote. To wrap up the day there will be 3 -$1000 scholarship drawings for OSU students. Come enjoy a day with leaders from around the state and spend time focusing on your place in our generation.

The conference is FREE! Breakfast and lunch will be provided!
